Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 13 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Stadler et al (US 5,236,548).

Stadler discloses a method for manufacturing semiconductor wafers comprising a step of immersing two or more wafers 6 into an etching solution (col.5, lines 59-69), while holding the wafers so that the plate surfaces thereof face each other (see figures), the etching being performed while rotating the wafers (col.5, lines 69), wherein a member 7-11 that changes flow of the etching solution (to provide, for example better drainage, col.5, lines 21-27; or to ensure uniform flow, col.6, lines 47-51) between each adjacent pair of wafers is arranged.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-12 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the prior art fails to suggest a method or apparatus in which two or more disk-shaped members immersed into an etching solution are held in a state where plate surfaces of the members face each other, and etching is conducted etching while rotating the members, wherein a non-rotating member is disposed between the members.

The closest prior art, Stadler, teaches a method and apparatus with rotation of disk-shaped members, however the member placed between the disk-shaped members rotates. There is no motivation to modify the method or apparatus to make the member non-rotatable, as in the context of claim 1 or 5.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
